Sixteenth Edition – October 2025

Index Editor's Note

It had been a tradition since the early days of Fil-Italia that a complete index was published every five years. In the autumn of 2003 I realised that the 30-year index would be expected in 2004. However, I was already concerned about the usefulness of the index published for the 25th anniversary and had noticed many errors in it. Also, as avid readers of Fil-Italia will be aware, I had never found the index very helpful. Fortunately, my grumblings in print brought forth an enthusiastic and well qualified volunteer, the now late Barth Healey, a member from New York, who offered a solution which I gratefully accepted.

Barth spent many hundreds of hours during 2004/5 compiling a completely new index for the first 30 years of Fil-Italia. It was an extraordinary undertaking that was accomplished with amazing good humour and steely determination. We owe him a great debt of gratitude.

The index details are kept in a computer database (for the technically minded it is an Access database) and are (usually) updated annually at the completion of each volume. At the same time, any errors or omissions that have come to light are corrected. Thus a fully up-to-date index becomes available every one or two years rather than every five years.

This document is available as a free “pdf” file downloadable from the website.

Introduction

What a humbling experience to browse through 122 chapters in the saga we know as Fil-Italia! The richness of the material that our society colleagues have provided us is quite remarkable, especially the contributions of our first editor, Colin Pilkington. I can only hope that this index will make this wealth of material more easily accessible.

Here are some suggestions about using this index, which has been arranged by subject matter rather than by time period, as previous indexes have been. The arrangement by time period was most suitable for the first decades of Fil-Italia; by now the scope of the material is too vast to split up in this way.

For the most part, every article is cross-indexed at least twice by subject. Maintaining cross-indexes over 122 numbers has proved the greatest challenge, and I have surely overlooked some connections, so researchers should check as many different topic headings as occur to them.

Within the subject listings, the most substantial articles are listed as "Survey," or occasionally "Overview." As far as I have been able, all follow-up articles are listed under the same heading as the original.

Checking the Author index and the subject headings listed for each writer is the most efficient way of finding the most substantial articles quickly. But for follow-up articles, you will have to go to the subject headings, e.g., after finding Colin Pilkington's articles on San Marino, check the "San Marino" listing in the subject index.

Similarly, Book Reviews are listed by subject matter.

Some general matters are not indexed: routine notes from the secretary about dues unpaid and the like, minutes from annual general meetings, new issues (where more comprehensive information is available from catalogues), general auction news (though notable sales are listed under Auctions). Letters are not indexed by author unless they include substantial information, but are indexed by subject matter.

Page references are in this sequence: Volume (in Roman numerals), Issue Number, Whole Number; Page Number. Page numbers start at 1 with the first issue of the year and run consecutively through the year's issues, finishing at about 200. There are a few irregularities. For example, 122 is not evenly divisible by 4, an oddity for a quarterly. But the first year there were six issues, which did not carry either a volume or an issue number. These are the short page references herein, e.g., 3;61 is page 61, which came in the third issue of the first year.

There were some numbering errors:

The issue labeled II,3,10 (Autumn 1976) should have been II,4,10. This error has been corrected in the page references here. In this issue, pages 183 to 192, though present, may be unnumbered.

Whole Number 35 (Winter 1982) should be Volume 9, Issue 1 (not 5).

Whole Number 36 (Spring 1983) should be Volume 9, Issue 2 (not 3).

The consecutive numbering was interrupted in Vol. XXVIII: Issue 1, Whole Number 111, included pages 1-48. Issue 2 (112) included pp. 1-30. Issue 3 (113) included pp. 79-134, correcting the consecutive sequence. I have not changed the page number references in Issue 2 (112).

I have left out all accents, first, because they often are not interchangeable from one word-processing program to another, and second, because it seems somehow arrogant to use accents only in Romance languages and German, and not in the Scandinavian and Slavic languages, and few publications are conscientious about consistency.

Abbreviations have been kept to a minimum. Aside from the obvious (P.O., U.P.U.), some others may be unfamiliar to collectors coming anew to Italian philately:

A.M.G. -- Allied Military Government
A.O.I. -- Africa Orientale Italiana (East Africa)
F.I.P. -- Federation Internationale de Philatelie
F.T.T. -- Free Territory of Trieste
G.N.R. -- Guardia Nazionale Repubblicana, the Fascist state declared by Mussolini in September 1943.
L.A.T.I. -- Linea Aerea Transatlantica Italiana
V.G. -- Venezia-Giulia
P.O.W. -- Prisoner of War
PP.TT. -- Posts and Telegraphs
R.S.I. -- Repubblica Sociale Italiana (Italian Social Republic), the Fascist government
T.P.O. -- Travelling Post Office or Temporary Post Office

Errors within such a mass of numbers are inevitable. The society will be maintaining an electronic copy of this index and would welcome corrections from colleagues.

Personal thanks are due our current editor, Andy Harris, who has been very patient while I labored over this index, and to Tom Facelle, our New York member, who provided many of the back issues needed for this work. Collective thanks are due all our colleagues for enriching our lives with Fil-Italia.

Articles by Author

Once a reader gains some familiarity with writers' specialities (Davies on Libya, for example, or Crevato-Selvaggi on East Africa), this is a good place to look for the most substantial articles. But the indexing here is skeletal, with only labels describing the original pieces. Virtually every article yielded later comments, clarifications, corrections, and it is best to go to the subject headings in the main index ("Libya" or "Eritrea") for the most comprehensive citations.

Queries

Following chains of questions and answers proved the most difficult aspect of this index. Some questions were vague ("What have we here?"). Some answers turn up years later, so be patient. Some answers are keyed to numbered inquiries (Q1, Q2, etc., or Q1a, Q2a, etc.), or requests for assistance (R1, R2, etc.). But that wonderful aid for indexers faded in the early 1980's. Unnumbered requests, which in later years came mostly in letters to the editor, are labeled simply R. Questions that arose from the Cover Corner feature are numbered CC1, CC2, etc., though that system faded, too. Answers in all cases are marked A. Some citations merely refine or expand the original questions. Many questions, alas, remain unanswered.
